GERMANS HOPE TO CAPTURE WARSAW

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, July 21.—The mighty battle between the Austro-German armies and the Russians for the possession of Warsaw is now in its decisive stage and so confident are the Germans that they will take the Polish capital within the next fortnight that they are already making plans for the triumphant entry of the Teutonic hosts.

Emperor William is already upon the eastern front where he is assisting in the direction of the three gigantic armies under Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Field Marshal von Mackensen and General von Buelow.

The Empress has been invited to the Polish front and she plans to leave on Friday for Posen, where she will be met by the Kaiser. According to present arrangements the Kaiser and Kaiserin will ride at the head of the Germanic armies as they make solemn entry into Warsaw, should the city fall soon.

Surging forward with irresistible force three armies that are taking part in the Warsaw drive are breaking down, one by one, the barriers defending the Polish capital. The defenses of Ostrolenka, on the Narw river, 60 miles northeast of Warsaw, have been shattered.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army held them in check since December, on the Rawka and Bzura rivers, the Germans have pushed on to Blonie, only 15 miles west of Warsaw, and occupied the town. This puts them within easy artillery range of the city itself.

The Blonie line has always been regarded by military authorities as the final line of defense for Warsaw. On the south the troops of Field Marshal von Mackensen have occupied Radom, which is only 30 miles from the great and important fortress of Inangorod on the Vistula river.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army is already thundering against the fortress of Novo Georgievsk, the key to Warsaw from the northwest, and only 20 miles from the Polish capital. That section of Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army commanded by General von Gallwitz, which occupied the Russian fortifications at Ostrolenka, is trying to cut its way in a southeasterly direction toward the river Bug.

Cavalry is playing an important part in the fighting southeast of Warsaw. Units from the forces of General von Mackensen and General von Worrich are pressing forward along the railway line between Radom and Inangorod in order to open the way for the advance of infantry and artillery.

It is reported that the Russian forces defending Lublin have begun to evacuate the city.

The reports from the front dwell upon the valor of the German troops who are under fire for the first time in the fighting in Poland. Men of the Landsturm regiments fought alongside of the veterans with equal courage. This is especially remarkable from the fact that the country south of Warsaw has favored the Russians, being well adapted to defense.

The Russian troops were compelled to attack under hot fire but their bravery carried the Imperial standard forward to fresh successes in every fight.

At the extreme northern end of the battle line on the eastern front the troops of General von Buelow are cutting their way toward Riga and it is believed that this Russian city will be captured without any great difficulty.

In Galicia fighting is again in progress in the Dniester section, but it is of secondary importance to the gigantic conflict raging in Poland.

A steady stream of Russian prisoners is pouring into Germany from the eastern front. So enormous is the number of Slav prisoners of war taken since the present campaign opened that the military authorities are severely taxed to care for them.

Dispatches from the front say that the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas have been waiting restlessly for the Russians are preparing to rush the Imperial household troops of Petrograd and Moscow to the front. These forces had been held in reserve for a critical emergency.

Field Day at Orange Lake.

The annual convention and field day of the Farmers and Fruit Growers of the Hudson River Valley will be held at Orange Lake Park on August 20 and 21. As usual the field day will be in charge of James E. Sleight, formerly of Marlborough. Mr. Sleight has been assured that many Granges will turn out and it is expected there will be a record breaking attendance. There will be a display of farm utensils and merchandise. The annual banquet will be held on the August 20, with Judge Seger as the principal speaker.

Frank's Condition Worse.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Milledgeville, Ga., July 21.—Leo M. Frank's condition was less favorable this morning. He spent the worst night he has had since being wounded and complained of a pain in his throat. His temperature then was 100; pulse and respiration normal. The attending physicians stated that Frank was very restless during the night, tossing about on his bed and sleeping only a little during the early hours of the morning. Another examination of his wound was made this morning.

BREAD RIOTS IN COLOGNE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Amsterdam, July 21.—Riots are reported to have broken out in Cologne as a result of the high price of food. Cologne lies upon the Rhine river in the Rhine province of Prussia. The industrial plants at Cologne were not such as could be turned into factories for the production of war supplies consequently the city has been hit very hard by the war and there is much idleness there.

Men and women stormed the market place and destroyed the windows in a number of shops.

Crying "Give us bread" and "Give us cheaper meat" the members of the mobs defied the police and destroyed much property before being dispersed.

The government is attempting to make popular a concentrated form of food composed of chemical extractions from vegetables and meats.

ORGANIZED LABOR WANTS SOME THINGS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, July 21.—More persistent than any other body that its interests shall not be ignored by the delegates to the constitutional convention, organized labor is watching the daily routine and bringing its influence to bear upon those who are doing the preliminary work of reorganizing the constitution so that its needs may be forgotten.

During the legislative sessions organized labor has likewise maintained a lobby, as it were, and the results of the past have indicated that those in charge have not been entirely without success. As a matter of fact, the very insistence has overcome whatever belief that may have existed that labor needed no laws but opportunity. The result has been that within half a decade more laws beneficial to the laboring man have been passed than during a quarter of a century previously.

It is quite evident that organized labor knows what it wants and is going about in an intelligent manner to obtain it. Earlier in the session of the constitutional convention those in charge of its campaign of recognition outlined what was desired from the delegates. This step was followed by appearances before committees by its representatives who argued well and clearly either for or against the various propositions given public hearings.

The stage of labor's battle has now arrived when open criticism is directed against the propositions which have been reported. This criticism is explained and is classified. If a proposed amendment is satisfactory, it is declared to be O. K. If dissatisfactory it is termed unsuitable and detrimental. Sometimes the word bad is used.

Some of the delegates agree that no one should know better what is desired by organized labor than organized labor itself. These friends of labor have advocated its desires. There are those among the delegates too, who appear to believe that the man who toils with his hands is amply protected under the present constitution and by laws recently created.

Upon the day calendar awaiting final disposition there are a number of proposed amendments in which organized labor is interested. It is satisfied with the proposition of the committee on legislative organization which would have the constitution amended so as to increase the number of senators and assemblymen from 11,500 to 22,500 in addition to railroad fare going and coming each week.

The proposed amendment which would permit the governor to utilize forty-five instead of thirty days in the examination of bills sent to him after a legislative session has been concluded, also meets with the approval of organized labor.

Likewise does organized labor favor diverse propositions which would amend the constitution that traveling salesmen, federal employees and employees on railroad trains may register.

Th Dunmore proposed amendment, which would prohibit the legislature from passing a bill which is unreasonable and likewise check any state board or commission from adopting any regulation thereunder, is not approved. Organized labor is also disappointed in the language of the Austin proposed amendment which would prevent a governor from expediting a bill through the medium of an emergency message.

Certain amendments to the new compensation law are desired and may be brought about by organized labor.

There is nothing secret about the efforts of labor to secure its needs. It means to accomplish what it deems imperative to its well being and does not seem to care who knows what it is trying to bring about.

The Euphrates is termed in the east "the royal river," from the fact that 672 kings have reigned on its banks.

BECKER MAKES FULL STATEMENT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 21.—Attorneys for Charles Becker, doomed to die in the electric chair next Wednesday for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, today had faint hope that Governor Whitman would grant him official clemency.

It is known that preparations already were under way at Sing Sing for the execution of Becker and his faithful wife was said to have little hope that Becker's long statement would save him.

Lawyers who have watched the Becker case closely pointed out that because nearly all the men on whom Becker, in his "confession" lays the blame for the murder of Rosenthal are dead, it is improbable that the statement signed at midnight last night in the death house at Sing Sing and carried early today to the governor would cause much of a scurry to cover in the underworld and the "system."

The "man higher up" named in Becker's statement as responsible for Rosenthal's murder is "Big Tim" Sullivan. He is dead. Becker, whose statement is a denial of all connection with Rosenthal's death and an excuse for gambling graft, says Sullivan told him that former Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo, at Sullivan's request, had declared a lenient policy toward gambling.

The next dead man named by Becker is the late George W. McClusky, a police inspector who Becker says was interested in a Broadway gambling establishment. McClusky died many months ago.

Another fact, it is pointed out, that makes it improbable that Becker's statement will lead to anything is that Jack Rose, "Bridgie" Webber and the other informers to whom the condemned man refers, are out of the state and are making it their business to stay out of New York.

The long statement, which interesting as a human document, adds but little to what already has been twice offered in behalf of Becker. That little is of interest to the public because it names "Big Tim" Sullivan and the Bowery. But Sullivan is dead and cannot corroborate the doomed man. It now is intimated by Becker's friends that Sullivan might have been murdered by the gamblers, but Sullivan was found crushed by a train after wandering away from a private sanitarium.

The Becker story is circumstantial and on its face logical. It gives him a complete alibi on the night of the murder. It gives an account of the every movement and names persons with whom he talked. But this alibi did not save him on two trials, in both of which he was convicted and sentenced to die.

ITALIANS CHARGE TURKISH OUTRAGES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, July 21.—Continued successes of the Italians on the Austrian front has inspired on the part of the press a very hostile attitude toward Turkey because of the harsh treatment of Italian subjects by the Ottoman government. Although Turkey and Italy are not at war, it is charged that the German element has persuaded Turkey to abuse Italian subjects in numerous ways and treat them, in many respects as though the two countries were in a state of hostilities.

In this connection the Giornale d'Italia prints what is evidently an inspired warning to Turkey because of the "shameful treatment of Italian subjects in the Ottoman empire, whose departure was delayed or prevented at the instigation of the German element." This newspaper declares that Italian public opinion is no longer willing to tolerate the persecutions of the Young Turks and are demanding that the government assume a firm attitude and invite the Porte to abandon its hostile policy. The people demand that the rights of Italian citizenship be respected says the Giornale d'Italia.

Continuing the paper says: "If Turkey believes she can take advantage of our war with Austria to offend our prestige, she is wrong. While Italy has no aggressive intention against the Ottoman Empire, yet she is no longer willing to tolerate the persecutions of our countrymen. Let those responsible ponder upon these words while there is time. We are voting the sentiment of the country which is now demonstrating that it can defend its moral as well as its material interests."

Sent Back Home.

Stanley Jodzio of No. 7 Vroom street, Jersey City, ran away from home a few days ago to seek his fortune. He was picked up on Broadway on Tuesday evening by Policeman Dempsey and this morning he was placed on a train and sent to his home. He is fifteen years old.

William Tell.

The story of William Tell and Gessler is nowadays looked upon as being a myth, pure and simple—quite as mythical as Washington and the hatchet, or St. George and the dragon.

HOWARD SPAULDING JR. & MISS CATHERINE BARKER.

$30,000,000 HEIRESS AND MAN SHE WILL WED.

(Miss Catherine Barker and Howard Spaulding, Jr.)

Harbor Springs, Mich., July 21.—On July 31, Miss Catherine Barker, heiress to the $30,000,000 of her father, the late John Barker, car manufacturer, will wed Howard Spaulding, Jr., of Chicago, Yale graduate and son of a Chicago jeweler. The wedding will be celebrated at the country home of Miss Barker, situated in the exclusive social colony here. Miss Barker is said to be the wealthiest girl in the United States. She owns the controlling interest in the Haskell Barker Company, of which her fiancé is an officer. The couple have been engaged for more than a year and have furnished a sumptuous apartment in Chicago where they will make their home. Miss Barker, who is nineteen, has been attending school in the east.

P. & O. LINER BURNING IN INDIAN OCEAN REMINGTON STRIKE NOT FULLY SETTLED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Durban, S. A., July 21.—Latest wireless advices from the Peninsula and Oriental liner Benalla, which is afire in the Indian ocean, are to the effect that the flames have been confined to the hold thus far. The liner has 800 English emigrants bound for Australia aboard and many of these have been pressed into service to help the crew in fighting the flames.

The steamer Okaki which responded to an "S. O. S." call from the Benalla is expected to reach the burning ship this afternoon.

The burning liner reached the burning liner in the Indian ocean at 6 o'clock this morning and had immediately begun the transfer of the liner's passengers.

The police moved the by-standers and the twenty pickets were called to a safe distance by the organizer.

A few more men joined the strikers' ranks this morning. Some of the 500 machinists who agreed yesterday to the increase in wages and eight hour day and with the body of machinists who refused to walk out when the order was given yesterday failed to show up for work this morning and the picket line thrown out this morning including 25 more of the union machinists will not return to the plant.

The arms plant used strategy when a group of 75 machinists showed up to go to work on the day shift. Teamsters used in carting dirt were ordered to draw their cars up in front of the gates and move slowly. This effectively blocked the pickets from getting to the men returning to the shops.

A few of the die sinkers were also induced not to go into the plant.

"We cannot tell how many men are out until we get the reports of the picketing," Thomas J. Savage, member of the executive committee of the International Association of Machinists who was in charge of the picketing, said this morning.

"Are there 125?" he was asked.

"About that number," was the answer.

The machinists already on strike are optimistic of the future, and in labor headquarters it was announced this morning that a plan of further action would be ready before noon, but outside of inducing a few straggling machinists to join the cause, there was nothing which would indicate any change in the situation.

James E. Cullum of No. 254 Hasbrouck avenue has been appointed boiler inspector for the New York State Department of Labor district comprising Greene, Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, Rockland and Columbia counties.

WORK BEGUN ON REPLY TO GERMANY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 21.—With President Wilson and the entire cabinet in accord on the general principles involved, Secretary of State Lansing today began the final draft of the note which is to go to Germany in a few days in reply to the Kaiser's recent unsatisfactory communication regarding submarine warfare and the rights of neutrals at sea.

Officials still maintain an attitude of secrecy as to the text of the American reply. It will be made public when it is received in Berlin. It has been ascertained however, that the answer of this government is friendly but firm in tone and that it carries a ring of finality which is lacking in former communications.

The United States, in other words, after indulging in diplomatic correspondence with Germany for several months, desires now to close the long drawn argument into which Germany appeared to be drawing the administration.

It is stated officially that the reply to Germany will not be delayed for the report on the investigation of the Orduña incident. This investigation was begun by the treasury department at the instance of the department of state, but it is not proposed to hold up the note to Germany while it is being ascertained whether a submarine fired on the Orduña without warning.

Should the investigation prove that the Orduña was attacked without warning and the lives of more than 20 Americans aboard her jeopardized, that fact would aggravate the present situation between Germany and the United States. It was felt by the President and his advisers, however, that the case of the Lusitania and the general principles involved in the long standing controversy were sufficient for the purpose of the reply which now is in course of preparation and there is no delay in its dispatch.

Cabinet members have endeavored to make it clear without directly revealing the contents of the American reply that it is not to be considered as an ultimatum to Germany. It is not bellicose in tone and this government has sought to avoid bombastic threats. Nevertheless, the American note will not be of a milk-and-water character which will encourage endless parley with Germany on matters concerning which the two nations are yet short of an agreement.

The key-note of the reply, it is understood here, is that Germany must be judged by her acts rather than by her correspondence. If German submarine commanders avoid future attacks upon ships carrying innocent American passengers and follow the rules of international law regarding search and seizure, without needless sacrifice of neutral life, this government will feel that the Kaiser has recognized in practice, if not in words, the principles laid down in former communications of this government.

If German submarine commanders do not observe the rules of international law and submarine attacks be made on unarmed vessels, that policy will be construed to represent the attitude of Germany.

This government feels, it is believed, that it has been reasonably patient in putting forward its views and awaiting Germany's decision. The forthcoming reply is expected, therefore, to be a plain notice, couched in polite language that the United States expects Germany to observe the justice of its position and there is no use to talk further about it.

In other words, if there be no more unseemly occurrences it is possible that the Lusitania affair may soon be settled and Germany may be expected to make reparation. If there be further submarine attacks on the President and his cabinet will be prepared for any eventuality and will be guided by public sentiment.

WELSH MINERS RETURN TO WORK

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cardiff, Wales, July 21.—More than 8,000 miners returned to work in the South Wales coal field today without waiting for the federation's official endorsement of the strike settlement reached yesterday through the efforts of Minister of Munitions David Lloyd-George. By tomorrow night it is expected that all the strikers will be back at their tasks.

The terms of the settlement are regarded as highly favorable to the men and the general belief today was that it would be ratified by the federation practically without opposition.

At 12:45 o'clock this afternoon it was announced that the miners' delegates had accepted the terms of the settlement and had been ordered back to work in the mines at once.

NO WAR ORDERS AT BREWSTER PLANT

Although the Brewster powder factory at Port Ewen is doing a good business and is working overtime, it is not engaged in filling any war orders, as stated in The Freeman on Tuesday. The domestic business is sufficient to keep the factory going. There is no shortage of labor and unskilled laborers who apply for a position can not be taken on. That there are many out of employment and that The Freeman is widely read is proved by the number of persons who have applied for employment since the erroneous item was printed.

BECKER STORY IS CORROBORATED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 21.—The story written by Charles Becker in the death house at Sing Sing in an attempt to escape death in the electric chair, for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was corroborated today in many respects by Harry Appelbaum, former secretary to "Big Tim" Sullivan, whom Becker named in his long statement. Appelbaum further asserted that he would help the condemned ex-convict to obtain clemency or a new trial.

Appelbaum admitted many of the statements made by Becker were true and declared that the condemned man had no motive for having Rosenthal killed as it had been arranged that the gambler was to go out of town instead of appearing before the grand jury as a witness in the gambling graft inquiry.

"Becker's story is not as strong as it should be," said Appelbaum. "It doesn't go to the bottom of the matter. Becker has not been perfectly frank on all the details, but I've always believed in his innocence and I'm willing to do anything I can to aid him."

"I am willing to admit that Becker saw Senator Sullivan in my presence on the night of the murder, but Becker doesn't tell as accurately as he should what happened. Becker asked us not to have Rosenthal leave town as that would reflect on him. He said that he was in a position to vindicate himself and didn't want to be put in a position where he couldn't do it."

"That doesn't look as if he planned the murder, does it?" "Had you arranged to have Rosenthal leave town?" Appelbaum was asked.

"Yes. We had it all fixed and he did not intend to go before the grand jury. That destroys any motive Becker might have had for instigating the crime."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 21, 1915.

Although the Constitutional Convention has been in session since the middle of last spring and summer is in its last half, only six out of the many scores of propositions submitted have been voted on. Two have been lost and four adopted. Only a few weeks more remain to complete the work, if it is to be done in time for the required legal notice to be given previous to the November election. Naturally, more rapid progress will be made from now on, since the committees are well along with their hearings. Just as happens with the Legislature, the end of the session will be distinguished by haste which is deplorable. The chances are great that the finished product will contain something which will lead to an adverse popular vote, and for this reason quite a sentiment has arisen in the Convention in favor of providing for a separate vote on each amendment. Theoretically, this is an excellent plan, but it has the weak point that a considerable number of electors would experience great difficulty in marking their ballots and would venture on nothing more than voting yes or no on the whole Constitution. In any event, hosts of voters will refuse to express themselves at all. One of the best things which could be put in the Constitution would be a provision that no more Constitutional Conventions be held except in pursuance of a vote of a clear majority of all the voters of the State, and that the same vote should be required to carry an amendment. It is absurd to have a fundamental law which is of such little interest that only a minority can be induced to vote for it.

The issue raised a year ago by Governor Glynn's veto of the direct tax bill which he had asked the Legislature to pass is rather dead now, but it is due to the voters whom it was attempted to deceive to inform them whether the claims made by Mr. Glynn or by his Republican opponents were truthful. The condensed balance sheet issued by the Comptroller for the date of June 30 shows that the total receipts of the State for the preceding six months amounted to $27,945,963.95, of which less than one million dollars came from direct taxes such as the armory tax and the court tax, the balance being derived from indirect taxes such as the excise tax, corporation tax and inheritance tax. During the corresponding six months of last year the total tax receipts were $39,185,537.21. This year, there was a shrinkage in the direct tax, due to the Glynn veto, of $6,667,033.43 and a shrinkage of $3,212,624.67 in the indirect tax, due chiefly to the fact that the inheritance tax, which fluctuates greatly, was larger in the former period. It has been found impossible to cut down expenditures very greatly this year because of the $600,000 appropriation for taking the census, the cost of the Constitutional Convention, etc. The net result of all this is that on June 30 there was a deficiency of $6,449,392.42 in the State treasury, although on January 1 there was a surplus of ten and a half million dollars. Now, it is obvious that Mr. Glynn, who had been Comptroller and knew all about State finances, was well aware that this condition of affairs would arise, and that his veto of the direct tax bill was a deliberate attempt to deceive the voters at the expense of injuring the public credit. This is a good thing to remember the next time a Democratic politician claims to have made a record for economy.

Farmers who have had their crops destroyed by deer and who have been prevented by the game law from killing the depredators will be interested to know that the Supreme Court of Iowa has decided in the case of State vs. Ward that one charged with killing a deer in violation of the law may show in justification that the deer was on his premises destroying his property. "The right of defence of person and property is a constitutional right," says the court. It is held, however, that the evidence must show that there was "reasonable necessity" for killing the animal, that no attempt was made to appropriate or conceal the carcass of the slain deer, and that the proper officer was promptly notified. A curious paragraph in the opinion follows: "It will be noted that the act of killing, as contended by the defendant, was wholly defensive and preventive. Whether a deer may be lawfully killed today by way of retaliation for the damage wrought by it yesterday, or whether it may be so killed by way of reprisal for damage wrought or threatened by other deer, are questions not involved herein, and we do not purport to pass on them." This sounds like a hint. We have no doubt that the supreme courts in other States would endorse the Iowa decision. Deer have no place in a farming country and it is intolerable that farmers should be injured and the taxpayers mulcted for the benefit of a few bloody-minded "sportsmen" who are a menace to human life all through the open season. It is high time that our non-hunting population has something to say about game laws.

THE HARVEST.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

A few days ago I drifted into a strange city, and chance led me past a house where, on the front steps, sat two little girls, one intently reading a daily newspaper, the other eagerly catching the words as they slowly dripped out. For twilight was fast merging into darkness and the little reader had difficulty in making out the lines; and beside, school training had not yet evolved ease in the art. A bit curious as to what challenged their interest, I frankly listened as she stumbled along, expecting to hear a childish story, or, at most, a bit of news likely to appeal to their minds.

But nothing of the sort. And what do you suppose it was that those two little women in the making seemed to find so absorbing that they were not ready to stop until the last word had been read?

The stuff ran something like this: "I am a young girl seventeen years old, and a young man two years older is paying me much attention, but there is another that I like pretty well, and I don't know what to do—won't you tell me how to choose?" Then, of course, follows the answer written by someone who laboriously grinds out similar questions and answers by the score, for newspaper publishers to accept (if they will) and the newspaper public to read. She is cautioned to let her heart be the guide, and so on to the pitiable finish.

That is not so bad that it might not be worse; and the little reader hurries on as fast as she can, urged along by her impatient companion. The next is another maiden all forlorn who is sore-distressed because the object of her fervent affections seems fit to "go to another girl"—pray, how shall she win his fickle fancy back again? Now, listen, please, and remember that it is two little girls upon whom the words are falling. The poor, forsaken damsel is advised to "find another fellow" to parade before the eyes of the recreant wooer, and if he has any slumbering affection, that will coax it back.

And on they go with the cheap, nauseating words, which they fondly believe are the outpourings of genuine hearts.

Darkness overtook the interested reader and the young listener as interested; and I, the grown-up listener, went on my wandering way, with an uncontrollable inclination to scold. To scold—but whom?

At first, I was minded to place most of the blame upon the writer; then remembrance came of the dreary fact that this is a cold, hard world for the majority of writer-folk, and they write what they can and what they think will be sold. It is for bread and butter they are writing, you know—not for fame or for pleasure. And so I pitied them more than I blamed.

Was it the publisher? Well, he was not let off so easily, for it did seem to me, as the words kept ringing in my head, that he ought to be more discriminating than that. Unpridefully, I knew very well that he had selected the rubbish from a lot of such matter that comes to his desk, because he thought it would be of interest to his women readers. And I wished, fervently wishing, he might know that the stuff was being fed to babies, instead. Yes, I grew very rebellious, for it was so apparent that those cheap, coarse contributions skip women almost entirely, and seek the intellectual level of the merest children. And I wondered it did not occur to him, and to all the publishers of his kind, to ask if our public schools, our high schools, our colleges, year after year, are turning out young women who are fitted for nothing better than such mental food. If they are, then surely our institutions are a failure. That one question ought to make him pause. But then came the thought of money again, and though the publisher might err in believing that his selections were anything but offensive to women, he must have believed they would help his paper to sell. So the blame did not all go to him.

The parents? As for me, were I the mother of two little girls, I would not give entrance into the home to any paper, any magazine, that descended to that low level of work. It is idle to say that such things do not matter, that time and life will look after that and that an inherent strain of fineness will keep any boy, and girl, from being affected, one way or the other, by foolish little talks like that. Because, the pity of it is, that wherever we go, whether into a strange city or right in the heart of our own, we catch snatches of talk from little girls that show, plainly enough, that some cheapening process is at work. Parents do not pass upon the items, the stories, the what not, that appear in the newspapers, the magazines, the books that are published; and it is not for them to say what the make-up shall be. But there are publications that are coarse and common to the last degree, and there are others that are a pleasure, an education to read. And when they find a newspaper filling a whole page with the lightest, trashiest of stuff, they can quietly strike it off from their lists; and if they drop a line to the publisher, just telling why, so much the better, for it may make him wake up.

But I cannot help thinking that any mother, any father, who listened in the twilight as I did to their own little folk absorbing such food, would be indifferent indeed if they did not step in and at least desperately try for something better. Not that stuff was anything worse than unattractively cheap in its tone, but that a time when little folk are more or less made or marred by their visions of life, whether they are real or on paper, fineness is the thing they most need. And it is distinctly the reverse when they are put in the way of feeding upon counsel like that upon questions that are unsuited for public airing, at best.

Yes, parents were given much of the blame, for they had nothing to gain and very much to lose.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Can you keep a secret?" "Yes." "But will you?" "Oh, that different. I don't know."—Detroit Free Press.

Judge (of divorce court)—"Aren't you attached to your husband?" Plaintiff—"Certainly. I came here to be detached."—Boston Transcript.

Clerk—"Couldn't I sell you a piano-player?" Smith—"No, I married one." Clerk—"I mean a mechanical one." "That's the kind I married."—Life.

"Them was nice folks you waited on, Mamie, ain't they?" "No, no, dear! Appearances are deceitful. They didn't have no charge account. Paid cash for everything."—Judge.

"You say she takes pains to conceal the size of her feet? What do you mean?" "I mean she wears shoes two sizes too small for her. If that isn't taking pains, what is?"—Houston Post.

"How are you going to spend the summer?" "Kicking about the climate and the food, as usual," replied Mr. Growcher; "although I haven't decided what place I'll go to."—Washington Star.

"What rattlesnakes around here?" "That's your business," asked the boy with the big straw hat. "What has that to do with it?" "Well, the last man who looked around here for summer board asked me a lot of questions like that, and when I told him there wasn't any rattlesnakes or mosquitoes or anything, he said he was a naturalist and he guessed the place wouldn't suit him."—Washington Star.

Reason.

During a military review at Aldershot one of the foreign attaches had asked himself obnoxious to several staff officers by asking ridiculous and often impertinent questions. Turning to an old infantry officer, he said:

"How is it, colonel that your bugle call 'Advance' is so short, while the 'Retreat' is just the reverse?" "Because sir," replied the veteran, "when a British soldier goes into action it only needs a little note from a bugle to make him advance anywhere, but it takes a whole brass band to make him retire."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Selfish.

"The naive, frank selfishness of war," the naive, frank selfishness of war, it makes me think of the beggar," said Andrew Carnegie at a luncheon in New York.

"A beggar, muscular and well fed, asked a lady for a nickel."

"I'm afraid you are not overfond of work," the lady said.

"No, ma'am, I ain't," the beggar agreed. "How could I be? Work's too killed my wife."—New York Times.

Stung.

A lady set her heart on a certain bracelet in a jeweler's window. The price, $150, was $100 more than her husband was likely to pay for her. So she laid a plot with the jeweler. Her husband had to be coaxed into buying it, the jeweler asked $75 and then allowing the husband to beat him down to $50, the wife to pay the balance, $100, out of her own allowance afterwards. Up to a certain point the plot was successful. The husband paid the $50 and went off with the bracelet. But he showed it to someone saying: "What do you think of this for a bargain?" The stranger said: "Good. I'll give you half as much again for it." So the bracelet changed hands, and he went home highly pleased with himself to tell his wife of the profitable deal. There was nothing for her but to "own up." The $100 balance had to be paid to the jeweler; and if you happen to meet the lady anytime, don't mention "bracelet" unless you want to hear something best left unsaid.—Philadelphia Star.

Father to Son.

The air was full of spring and the song of the birds; the voice of the brook had lowered from the roar of the freshet to something like its normal babble as it rippled over the pebbles of the meadow stretch. The lussy willows—Young Hiram hauled back on the reins of the team as his father dragged the heavy plow out of the finished furrow and swung round for the next one. "It's spring, for sure, father," said Hiram, and added, looking wistfully down toward the brookside, "I bet the trout are biting down there in the hole under the willows." "Hiram, if you'll just hang on them reins, and be careful to keep on this side of that fence," the father replied reassuringly, "they won't bite you."—Rochester Times.

AMENDMENT THAT SEEMED TOO BROAD

There was an interesting hearing before the committee on education of the Constitutional Convention last week on Delegate James L. Nixon's proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting any of the schools or academies of the state which received any portion of the public money, from using text books printed in other languages than English.

Mr. Nixon, who resides in Buffalo, said that his amendment was in itself an argument which should be convincing to the committee and the convention as the present laws of the state allow the board of regents, the commissioner of education and the local school authorities to determine what text books shall be used in the schools. He did not think it the best way to teach Americanism or the best plan to educate the coming citizens of foreign parentage. That a better way to assimilate the many foreigners and their children, was to have the constitution prescribe that they should immediately be taught to write and speak English.

Judge Clearwater, who is vice-chairman of the Committee on Education, after listening to Mr. Nixon at considerable length, asked if his proposed amendment would not prohibit the teaching of Latin, Greek and French in the schools and academies receiving part of the money. Mr. Nixon said that he did not intend that it should do so, but it was pointed out to him that that probably would be the result. He then said that his principal object was to prevent the using of text books printed in Polish, and that his amendment was inspired by the fact that in Buffalo they were using text books printed in that language.

Jacob Schurman, president of Cornell University, expressed the opinion that it was hardly of sufficient importance to justify a constitutional provision. Delegates Sergeant, Shipman and Donovan of New York city stated that New York had many more Poles and other people of foreign birth who sent their children to the public schools in that city, and there never had been any complaint regarding it.

The entire committee seemed to be of the opinion that the amendment was not justified.

Sunday School Excursion.

The plans for holding the annual excursion of the Bible school of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer of Wurts street have been completed. This year the members of the school and its friends will go to Palisades Park and New York city, making the excursion on the steamer Sirius of the Iron Steamboat Company, leaving Rondout at 7 o'clock the morning of August 31 and returning that evening.

CLAMBAKE FOR AUTOMOBILE CLUBS

A meeting to discuss further arrangements for the clambake and barbecue to be given for the members of the Automobile Clubs of Ulster, Dutchess, Orange and Columbia counties was held Tuesday evening at the Eagle Hotel.

The combined bake and barbecue will be held at Kohlanaria Park, Poughkeepsie, on Saturday, July 31, and will open promptly at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be prepared by M. Kohl of Poughkeepsie, whose successful bakes have met with hearty approval and annihilation by Ulster county automobilists on many occasions.

It is expected that the Automobile Club of Ulster County will be represented by sixty parties, and entertainment will be provided for everyone. From the time the bake and barbecue opens until the last visitor has left the park, there will be something to interest and entertain them each moment, in addition to the elaborate menu which is being prepared.

The Dutchess County Automobile Club was represented at Tuesday evening's meeting by Dr. Pilgrim, Peter H. Troy, Minard Barlowe and Stephen Mates. The Automobile Club of Ulster County was represented by Elva H. Bogart, James F. Loughran, Dr. W. J. Smith, Ward B. Everett, J. E. Klock, David Burgevin, Dr. H. F. Meinhardt and Elmer E. Swart. The automobile clubs of Orange and Columbia counties were not represented but both are expected to send delegations to the next meeting of the committee, which will be held at The Palatine Hotel at Newburgh on Monday evening at six o'clock.

Mortgage Assignment Set Aside.

In the matter of the Tirrill Gas Machine Lighting Company against Yetta Goldberg, et al., Judge Cochran has handed down a decision setting aside the assignment of a mortgage from the defendant, Goldberg, to the defendant, Isaac L. Singer, on the ground said assignment was fraudulent as to the plaintiff, a judgment creditor of Yetta Goldberg, and that plaintiff is entitled to a judgment setting aside the assignment of the mortgage, with costs.

The plaintiff procured a judgment against the defendant, Yetta Goldberg, who had a residence at Pine Hill. She transferred the property to her brother. The case was tried before Judge Cochran at special term at Hudson. D. G. Atkins appeared for plaintiff, Solomon S. Loff and Morris Wolf of New York city, appeared for defendants.

The Old Guard Meets.

Those interested in the formation of an Old Guard, to be composed of former members of local military companies, held a meeting at the armory on Tuesday evening when the committee on by-laws submitted its report. Owing to the fact that so many of those interested in the movement were out of town it was decided to defer action on adopting by-laws and perfecting the organization until a later meeting when there will be a larger attendance.

VANDERZEE THREW AN IRONING BOARD

"He threw an ironing board at me and cursed me," said Mrs. Sylvester Van Derzee, of No. 51 South Pine street, this morning as she appeared before Recorder Andrew Lang at the city hall to straighten out her matrimonial difficulties, and after hearing her story the recorder issued a warrant for the arrest of her husband, who is a junk dealer. Later in the morning Van Derzee was arrested by Policeman Hess and arraigned before the bar of justice. Van Derzee, who is a negro, denied throwing the ironing board at his wife but said he had sworn at her.

"Ten dollars or ten days," said the recorder at the close of Van Derzee's story of how it happened.

"I'll take the ten days like a man," said Van Derzee as he was led from the court room.

"Is that all you want of me," queried Mrs. Van Derzee as she watched her husband being led away but she was positive he did not have his arm around the affinity.

She was advised that if her husband was fickle in his affections that it would be best for her to secure the services of a lawyer.

Her Husband's Affinity.

Another matrimonial difficulty was brought to the attention of Recorder Lang when another colored woman appeared and told a tale of woe. She said she was working in Kingston and her husband kept house at East Kingston. Since she has been away from home she has found that her husband has acquired an affinity or rather that he has had an affinity wished on him as he was being chased by another colored woman who sought to come between husband and wife. The wife said when she went home one day recently she found her husband sitting under a shed with this affinity but she was positive he did not have his arm around the affinity. She was advised that if her husband was fickle in his affections that it would be best for her to secure the services of a lawyer.

Other Cases.

Floyd Vogt of Clifton avenue was arrested on Tuesday evening by Policeman Kuehn for running his automobile on central Broadway without the tail light being lighted. Vogt was discharged.

Charles Jung stopped off in Kingston on Tuesday evening and while waiting at the West Shore station he managed to miss his train. While waiting for a later train he went over to the Ulster & Delaware freight house and fell asleep on the steps. He was picked up by Policeman Dempsey and locked up over night. This morning he showed the recorder his ticket and on his promise to take the next train out of town he was discharged.

Twilight Sleep Babies.

Two Twilight Sleep babies were born this week at Dr. Johnston's sanitarium on Wall street. The first baby, an eleven pound girl, was born on Monday to Mr. and Mrs. William O'Neil of LeFevre Falls, and the other, a boy, was born on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster of Brown's Station.

REMINGTON STRIKE BREAKS OUT AGAIN

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Bridgeport, July 21.—The war on the sub-contract shops doing work for the Remington Arms Company was carried on with added vigor today by the organizers of the machinists' international body. The Remington Company is installing new machinery, parts for some of which are coming from other Bridgeport shops. Other Bridgeport shops are making accessories for war materials for the Remington works.

The intention is to force the Remington works to submission by tying up the outside shops.

Thomas J. Savage, member of the executive committee of the International machinists' body, made plain this morning that this movement will form an important part of labor's program. It is questioned whether this action will seriously interfere with the Remington plant. If successful, it will hurt the plant but not in a way to force the plant to submission, it is believed.

Mr. Savage made his first move this morning when he called the twenty machinists from the Grant Manufacturing and Machine Company. A few minutes later he ordered 90 from the works of the Coulter and McKenzie plant, makers of heavy machinery.

Lloyd George—the Man.

Being by profession a solicitor, it is scarcely surprising to learn that Lloyd George takes a keen interest in criminal cases. He will follow the evidence of a big murder trial very closely, and will afterwards describe to you, in course of conversation, what questions he would have put to the witnesses and what verdict he would have given if he had been in the jury.

I once asked him, "Were you fond of the law?" "I was fond of advocacy," he replied, "and, on the whole, the six years during which I practiced were very happy, although," he said, reflectively, "I do not know whether I should care to resume my professional labors. I had one serious drawback—I never sent in any bills of costs. The result was I never had any money. But when my brother joined me in practice things improved in that respect. I must confess, however, that I hated office work."

Some time ago a friend had been descending to him upon the enormous quantity of margarine which is consumed. A few weeks afterward the following conversation took place:

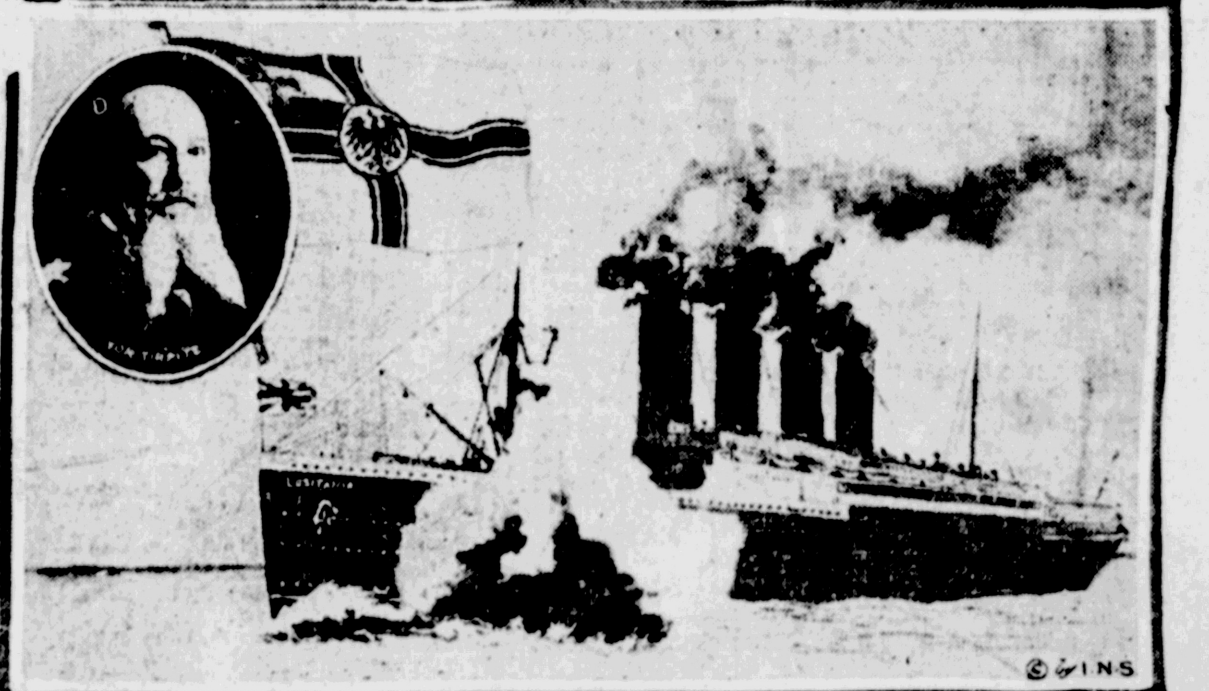

Lloyd George: "I sent for some of your margarine the other day."

The Friend: "How did you like it?"

Lloyd George: "Well, it seemed all right, but somehow I did not feel that I was doing the right thing."

The Friend: "I suppose you thought you were robbing the poor cow of her living?"

Lloyd George: "Yes. Having been brought up in the country I regard the cow as a sacred animal."—From the August Strand Magazine.

MANUAL TRAINING AT HIGH SCHOOL

Department to be Thoroughly Equipped for Teaching the Elements of a Number of Trades to the Pupils.

The manual training department of the new high school which will be opened in September, will be as well equipped as any high school in the state. Although Kingston is among the last to take up this work it has made up for its tardiness by equipping the department wonderfully.

For the work of manual training, which is often abbreviated man-training, and is in reality man training, a special room of large dimensions has been set aside in the west wing of the new building on the basement floor.

The room will be partitioned off by screening and by glass so that the instructor will have full view of the entire department at all times and can observe every one who is in the room and in all the departments.

This room will contain a printing department, which will be enclosed in the northwest corner of the room, and will have windows of glass in it.
The desk of the instructor will be in one corner of this room and will be in a position to have full view of the entire department. This department will contain a Golding printing press, a make up stone, type cases, and a paper cutting machine.

To the southwest portion of the room there will be an enclosure in screening which will contain the planing machine, the combination circular saw and boring machine and also a jointer. A portion of this room will be set aside as a tool room and will be under the supervision of one of the boys appointed by the instructor.

The remainder of the room will contain three lathes on a line shaft and a demonstration lathe for the use of the instructor, a band saw and a grinder.

There will be twenty working benches in the room for the use of the students and one for the use of the instructor. Around the table of the instructor will be constructed steps on which the students can stand while observing the work of the instructor and all will have a clear view of the work being done.

All of the machines will be equipped according to the specifications with the latest known safety devices. The jointer will have a circular safety head, the only kind which will be allowed by law in the state of Maryland.

No boy will be allowed to go near the machines until he has demonstrated a willingness to work and an interest in the course and also the fact that he is very careful. When he has done this he will be allowed to operate the machines under the observation of the instructor and will be allowed to have charge of the tool room.

Each working bench will be equipped with a jack plane, a smoothing plane, a rule, a lay out knife, a gauge, a try square, a quarter inch and a half inch chisel. On the side of the bench will hang a mallet, a hammer, a back saw, a straight edge, a brush and a bench hook. Each boy will have a drawer in the bench and will be responsible for the tools in the drawer, which will be plane bits and a carving chisel. The having of separate plane bits for each boy will eliminate the expense of having separate planes for each boy. Braces and bits and such other articles will be kept in the tool room.

Before a boy is allowed to work on an article, he must first make a rough sketch of it and all work done in the department must be done from drawings. Elementary drawing will be taught and the boys will be required to make drawings of the machines and their parts which will aid in their understanding of the operation of the machines in the department.

In order that the boys will not be clock watchers and will do their work from mere interest the instructor has the clock entirely within the printing room and out of the view of those working in the other parts of the room.

Technical magazines of any sort and of any date and in any quantity will be welcomed by the department as it is the intention of the head of this department to start a technical library for the use of the boys.

Any one having these magazines will let the authorities at the high school know they will only be too glad to call for them.

The student in this department will be marked on his attitude toward the work, the quality of the work which he turns out and the condition in which he keeps his tools. There are no regents of this course and the work of the boy throughout the year is influential in determining his standing at the end of the year. As a result the boy who works will get full credit and the one who loaf will get nothing.

The work of the woodworking department will be to turn out little things for the high school which the school needs and which the board of education could not otherwise provide, such as bulletin boards for each room and such things. There is no idea of competing with local tradesmen and many of the articles will be things that the boys can take home for their own use after they have made them.

The idea of the department is not to make tradesmen out of the boys but merely to aid the boys to find themselves. They will learn to handle tools properly, to gain some idea of measurements and how to measure correctly. He will learn the fundamentals underlying all the work in the various departments and will be made to respect the work of the tradesman.

Formerly while the rich man and the man of ordinary means paid the same amount of taxes the rich man received more, for his boy received a preparation for college while the poorer man's son, seeing no advancement in high school left, since he was unable to go to college. Yet the two men paid the same amount of taxes. Now the poorer man's son can go to high school take these courses in manual training and in this way find the work which suits his taste best. It is equalizing in the way the benefits which the taxpayers receive and giving the poor man a return equal to that received by the richer man.

All the work done in the department will be done under a system and will be closely observed. Laziness will not be tolerated but the student who is willing to work will be given every opportunity to do so.
It is estimated that it will take almost two years to get the courses running in full swing.

Under this department will also come the agricultural work, for which a large plot of ground has been reserved in the rear of the high school. This course, too, is not designed to make farmers out of the boys, but to teach them the fundamentals of agriculture and a respect for the work of the farmer.

A room has been set aside on the east wing of the building for sewing and a number of machines will be placed in this room and besides there will be a power machine. A cooking department will also be organized and will have a room on the south end of the east wing.
There will be a number of cooking tables about the room which will be connected with water and waste pipes and there will be a stove in the room as well. Here the funda-mentals again will be taught and the plain solid and common articles of food will be cooked.

The entire work will be under the charge of a competent instructor in the person of Robert J. Service. Mr.
Service is a former Kingstonian, a graduate of the Poughkeepsie school, Ulster Academy and Kingston Academy. After graduating from Ulster Academy he took a post graduate course in Kingston Academy and graduated from that institution the following year. He has had considerable experience in this line of work, having taught in the Trenton Penitentiary for Girls, the Trenton High School, a private school in Greenwich, Conn., Poughkeepsie Institute, College Point, N. Y., in which he taught wood carving and modeling, East Orange High School, and was previous to coming back to Kingston an assistant professor in Rutgers College. Mr. Service is well equipped to do this work and the board of education has been particularly fortunate in getting the services of Mr. Service.

OLDEST GROCERY HOLDS CELEBRATION

One of Kingston's Landmarks That Has a Record of 56 Years in Business, and its Present Proprietor.

This week James A. Phelan is celebrating the fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of his store

JAMES A. PHELAN.

KINGSTON'S OLDEST GROCERY STORE.

on Broadway. It is probably the oldest business establishment of its kind in Kingston, and Mr. Phelan is being warmly congratulated by his large circle of friends and acquaintances over the success which this store has won and is enjoying at the fifty-sixth milestone of its existence. Every link in this chain of years has been welded by the fire of honesty in its broadest sense and evenly tempered with sincerity.

Michael Phelan, for whom older residents of this city always have a kind word to say, established the Phelan store on its present site, in July, 1859. His honesty of purpose in the foundation and the consistent stability which he manifested, won for him immediate success.

Although Michael Phelan's charitable deeds have frequently been discussed and have gone down in history as a very pleasant reminiscence of a good man's lifetime, it will not be amiss to here make reference to his staunch friendship toward the poor in those panicky times in the early seventies, when the Walkkill Valley railroad suspended payment and went into the hands of receivers. Many who were and were not Mr. Phelan's patrons were employed on the Walkkill and were thus deprived of employment and a means of earning a livelihood, and without any prospect of receiving the amount that was due to them at a very early day. Mr. Phelan, however, taxed his own resources heavily and stood valiantly by the poor and needy until darkness and gloom were dispelled and were succeeded by sunshine.

So through those many years people have liberally patronized the Phelan store and brought up their children and grandchildren to depend upon it because of its honorable reputation.

James A. Phelan followed the beaten path of his father, and in that quiet and unostentatious way characteristic of the man this same "Old Store" through his tireless efforts has been brought up to a high standard of helpfulness to its patrons, and a credit to Kingston. Like tall oaks from little acorns growing, Mr. Phelan, in speaking of modern merchandising, says:

"Neither money, praise nor a college education is sufficient to make a merchant. Business is a science that cannot be bought, stolen or inherited. It is to be had only by study, diligence, determination and unceasing work, persistent, aggressive persevering effort, and then it often comes suddenly as a great surprise. At first sight there does not seem to be much heroism or romance in the life of a merchant, but commerce has quickened the faculties of men and brought into fellowship all the races of men the world over. It is a rare satisfaction to benefit humanity through the trivial details of routine and inventive work, and nowhere can this satisfaction be more readily obtained than in a store as it must be conducted in these progressive times."

MUTTON HOLLOW RANGE IS READY

Captain Frank L. Meagher of Company M has the armory employees out on the Mutton Hollow rifle range daily in order to give those members who wish a chance to qualify at the instruction practice, which must be shot before an individual can be advanced to record practice, to be fired on a date set by the ordnance department of the state. The local military commander will make his best effort to have all his men qualify at the instruction practice before the regular days.

Those members who fail to appear at Mutton Hollow on any of the preliminary days will be ordered out on a certain day by Captain Meagher so that every man will have shot the instruction practice, which will make the record or qualification course more effective. The grades of classification obtained in instruction practice are by selective scores of five consecutive scores, a first class man must score 150 out of a possible 225; second class, 130 out of 225. Those below 120 and all who fail to complete the course or fail to fire are unqualified.

After completing the instruction practice, those who qualify as first class men are eligible to fire record practice. The grades of qualification which can be obtained in record practice the keys of which were held by three officials high in the councils of the apothecaries. Several times during the fortnight of preparation there were addresses and collations. "It is easy to see the psychology and financial advantages of such pomp and circumstance," Corner writes. And he adds, "Imagine the effect of a public preparation of Peruana on Mount Vernon Place in Baltimore, with addresses by the mayor and state chemist, the medical faculties attending in academic robes, assisted by Sousa's band!"

Liberty Bell at Seattle.

A copy of the Seattle Daily Times received in this city from C. C. Ten Broeck, who with the Shriners' party is en route to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, gives much interesting news of the festivities held in that city in honor of the Shriners. It also gives a description of the reception afforded the Old Liberty Bell on its arrival there, as follows: "Thousands thronged the great open spaces about the railway station and yards at an early hour to obtain vantage points from which to view the bell's arrival and to witness the ceremonial of the reception. High state and city dignitaries were present. * * * Few ovations so hearty and spontaneous ever arose from a Seattle crowd as that which greeted the bell when it pulled into the King street station. * * * On the rear car of the train was the bell, mounted on what looked like a giant saw-horse, and the official escort which included Louis Hutt, member of the board of select councilmen of Philadelphia, who is representing 72-year-old Mayor Rudolph Blankenburg of Philadelphia

BAYONNE STRIKERS FIGHT WITH POLICE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Bayonne, N. J., July 21.—One man was killed, eight shot and many badly injured by heavy cobbles thrown today in a pitched battle between 1,500 Standard Oil Company strikers and 140 policemen and special deputies in front of the Tidewater Oil Company plant here.

Five hundred shots were fired and the officers were being overcome by the workmen when eight fire engines of the Bayonne department responded to the riot call and dispersed the army of strikers with heavy streams of water. Police Inspector Cody had a horse shot under him, six policemen were beaten into unconsciousness, and scores of others were struck by clubs or flying stones. Two saloons and many frame houses were practically wrecked. More trouble is expected.

The police force is admittedly inadequate in handling the warring strikers and additional deputies are being sworn in at the city hall. All are being armed with heavy clubs and large calibre revolvers.

No trouble was expected today by officials of the Standard Oil, who yesterday closed the big plant following a strike of several hundred men, and forced five thousand men out of work. At least 3,000 of the 5,000 were strung along East 22nd street for five blocks when a large number of special deputies infuriated many by ordering them to move on.

The deputies were instantly attacked. Several took refuge in a fire house directly across the street from the Tidewater plant and others fled into two saloons and a number of frame buildings as the strikers let fly a volley of stones weighing from one to five pounds.

Using heavy clubs and paving stones from the street, the strikers battered down the fire house doors and attacked those within. Every policeman and deputy in the neighborhood came to the rescue while strikers hastened to the attack. The fire house was wrecked, the engine smashed, and those within badly beaten before a squad of 100 police, formed in a hollow square, reached the building.

These were assaulted, and as they drew revolvers a shower of missiles sent several to earth unconscious. An order to shoot into the mob was given. At the first volley several strikers fell.

They withdrew for a moment, then, shooting and hurling stones, they came again to the attack. Cody's horse, shot through the body, dropped just as a bullet ripped across Cody's leg. Patrolman Woort was knocked off his mount by a stone that caught him on the shoulder. Patrolman Lanette was cut in the neck by a striker's knife. Policemen Harris and McGehean were hit in the face by stones and knocked senseless.

Within five minutes more than 50 of the officers were hurt so badly they were unable to fight longer. A hurry-call for aid was sent to city hall, and eight fire engines were sent to the rescue. The shooting continued while the fire engines were making the trip, and other strikers fell. Cody was again hit by a stone. Two of his men, carried him into a hallway, where they were set upon by a dozen strikers. Peter Ruch, driver of the Bayonne hospital ambulance, drove through the mob and single handed got the inspector inside his ambulance. The mob attacked him and the machine with stones, smashing in the glass windows and wooden sides, and inflicting slight cuts on both Ruch and Cody. Ruch sent his machine through the crowd and got Cody to the hospital.

When the firemen arrived they found the deputies and police surrounded and almost overpowered. Hastily attaching their hose, they turned the nozzles on the crowd and forced the attackers backwards. Even then the strikers continued to throw stones, hitting several firemen.

The street resembled a skirmish field when it was cleared. Six strikers, one dead, and four policemen lay on the pavement. Two ambulances made a dozen trips and took many badly hurt and slightly injured to the hospital.

The name of the dead man is not known. Seven strikers are in the hospital suffering from shots in the arms or legs.

The strikers are still gathered five blocks from the battle ground. Martial law may be proclaimed.

EX-GOVERNOR DIX IN BANKRUPTCY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Utica, July 21.—Former Governor John A. Dix in a statement filed in United States court here today, admits he is insolvent and unable to meet his obligations. The statement is made by the former governor in connection with an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against him by creditors.

Dix's admission of insolvency as filed follows:
"I, John A. Dix of Thomson, Washington county, New York, do hereby admit that I am unable to pay my debts and I am willing to be adjudged a bankrupt on that ground, as provided by the U. S. bankruptcy act of 1898."

The admission comprised part of a creditor's petition in bankruptcy against the former governor. There was also filed a creditor's petition against the Moose River Lumber Company, at McKee, following a meeting of the directors of the company, held at Albany yesterday when an insolvency resolution was adopted and Ray C. Tiescher, secretary, was directed to file an admission.

Hiram C. Todd of Saratoga Springs, represents the petitioning creditors against Dix and the Moose River Company in which Dix is heavily interested.

Creditors who ask that Dix be adjudged a bankrupt are Little and Loomis, Glens Falls, $30 due for insurance premiums, John D. Coffin, Thompson, $500 loan and Hiram C. Todd, Saratoga Springs, $100, for services. Creditors who filed petition against the lumber company are Thompson Douglas of Albany $4,671, claim for services, Little and Loomis, Glens Falls, insurance, and George D. Starr, Saratoga Springs, $11, stationery.

The subpoenas to the alleged bankrupts are returnable in the federal court in Utica on August 2. Five days are allowed for answer. If Dix does not answer the petition he will be adjudged a bankrupt.

It is understood that Attorney Todd, who filed the petitions, will apply to Judge Ray at Norwich today for the appointment of receivers. Ex-Governor John A. Dix, according to reports, has been financially involved for some time.

He was the governor of the state for two years and prior to that was heavily engaged in lumbering operations and the manufacture of wall paper. He was one of the principal stockholders of the Moose River Lumber Company, which has a valuable property at McKee near Utica.

In City Court.

This morning in city court before Acting City Judge Andrew Lang, testimony was taken in the action brought by Timothy Doyle through his mother, Mrs. Ellen Doyle, to recover $500 damages from Mrs. Mary Young for injuries alleged to have been received when the boy was struck by Mrs. Young's automobile in October, 1912, on Broadway, near the West Shore crossing. The boy had four front teeth knocked out and it was stated he received other injuries and suffers from headache, a good deal. The boy was represented by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly. There was no appearance on the part of the defendant. At the close of the testimony Judge Lang reserved decision.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Josiah L. Hasbrouck of Beechford has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's court. To his son, Egbert J. Hasbrouck, the testator bequeaths his cows, churn and cream separator. The balance of the estate is to be divided among his children, Egbert J. Hasbrouck, Charles S. Hasbrouck, DuBois Hasbrouck, Augusta Dougherty, Effie Winne and Rose Elmendorf, except that the sum of $400 is to be deducted from the residuary share of DuBois Hasbrouck and $25 from the share of Augusta Dougherty, such sums having been advanced to them by the testator during his lifetime.

Jerome Winne is appointed executor. The will was executed March 23, 1914 and witnessed by V. B. Van Wagoner of this city and John H. Robinson of Beechford. A codicil to the will executed July 30, 1914, and witnessed by John H. Robinson and Lena Hasbrouck, both of Beechford, appoints Charles Hasbrouck and Egbert J. Hasbrouck executors in place of Jerome Winne, deceased. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. John W. Eckert appeared for the executors.

In the estate of Therese Fletcher Dimick of Rifton, a petition for a judicial settlement was filed by Therese Dimick Browning, the administratrix with the will annexed, and a citation was issued returnable August 16. John H. Hilliard of New York city appeared for the petitioner.

In the estate of John Michaelis, a petition was filed by James Carnwright, who holds a note for $118.70, to require Kathryn M. Michaelis, the administratrix, to show cause why she should not render her account. A claim for the amount of the note was presented to the administratrix but not paid. The administratrix made an accounting in May but Carnwright was not cited. A citation was issued returnable August 2. Van Etten & Cook appeared for the petitioner.

In the estate of Charles E. Lasher of the town of Woodstock, an order was granted directing John P. Lasher, the executor, to turn over the estate unadministered in his hands to Minerva E. Lasher, who was named executrix in the will. Van Etten & Cook appeared for the executor.

In the matter of the guardianship of John E. Murphy, Ralph E. Murphy, Leo Murphy and George Murphy, a petition was filed by John T. Cahill, attorney for the guardian, for additional security to be filed in regard to a claim which will be collected from Virginia.

To Avoid Taking Cold.

How shall we avoid taking cold? To begin with, lead the physiological life. Is the advice of a well-known physician. Get up in good time; bathe well; eat three meals of wholesome food a day, and don't hurry about it. Be in the fresh air all the time, day and night; and get in the sunshine whenever you can, and it isn't too hot.

FOOD EXPOSED TO CONTAMINATION

Section of the Sanitary Code Ignored by Many Dealers, But Should be Rigidly Enforced.

Now that the really warm weather is here there is one section of the new sanitary code recently adopted by the board of health that should be enforced and that is regulation 31, sub C, "Covering of Food Products" which reads as follows: "Food products that do not have to be peeled, pared or cooked before they are fit for consumption, when inside or outside of any store, market or shop, and intended, offered or exposed for sale, must be tightly covered with a wood, metal, glass or other proper dust and fly proof cover or exposed in special cases for their purpose. Inside they must be elevated from the floor twenty (20) inches and when outside they must be elevated thirty (30) inches from the floor or sidewalk. All other food products that have to be peeled, pared or cooked before they are fit for consumption may be exposed, but must be elevated above the floor or sidewalk twenty (20) inches."

That this regulation is not being enforced can be easily seen if the reader will take the trouble to walk to his nearest fruit store when he will find exposed for sale all sorts of fruit and vegetables placed out in front of the store on the sidewalk with no attempt at covering or protecting the products from the dust and dirt of the street. It would not be so bad if dogs and cats were not allowed to run loose in the streets and if some fly netting was thrown over the fruit stand. The fruit stores, however, are not the only breakers of the board of health laws as a walk past other stores will clearly demonstrate.

The public, however, is somewhat to blame for the laxness of the enforcement of this regulation regarding the protection of food products for if they refused to purchase any food products exposed for sale in such a way the dealers and merchants would quickly adopt other methods of handling the articles and exposing them for sale.

The other day a man walked up to a store and wishing to purchase an article of food that was exposed to the dust and dirt of the street asked the price and said he wished to purchase some. When the merchant started to wrap up some of the articles he exposed the customer refused to accept them stating that he did not care to purchase anything on which flies had been resting and to get some similar articles out of the store. He was informed that that was all the dealer had on hand and the customer politely said that he would look elsewhere.

If all shoppers were as particular as this customer the practice of exposing food products without proper covering as required by law would soon cease. It would seem that the average purchasing public is equally to blame for the laxness of the enforcement of public health laws.

HIGH FALLS, O.; MOHONK, 3.

One More Shut-out to Mohonk Nine's Credit.

Mohonk Lake, July 21.—Strongly fortified with confidence after beating Wilbur, High Falls came here on Tuesday afternoon and went back scoreless. Twice they filled the bases and twice Owl rose to the occasion and the expected score failed to materialize. Just to add a little to his record of three shut-outs in succession, Owl knocked what was good for a homer into the woods in center field but lost the score by failing to touch third base. The next time up he knocked a two-bagger into the same leafy retreat, and in the eighth inning Juckett added to the smashing record by a beautiful homer. Meyers pitched good ball for High Falls, but suffered from erratic support in the infield. The score:

Diamond Retains Luster.

Only the expert can tell an imitation diamond from a real stone when the imitation is new, but after the fake stone has been worn for a little time it soon loses its luster. It is this which makes a real diamond valuable. No matter how long it is worn it will keep its sparkle almost as well as ever.

HONORING AN AMERICAN HERO DOCTOR.

This photograph shows the grave of Dr. James Donnelly, the well known American physician, who saved his life in Serbia, fighting the scourge of typhus fever, which had laid low tens of thousands of peasants and soldiers in that country. Dr. Donnelly's Serbian friends are standing beside the grave. Lipton publicly announced before Donnelly's death that "Dr. Donnelly is the bravest man that I have ever known." The small monument over the grave was erected by contribution from thousands of Serbians who knew and loved the American doctor, who finally succumbed to the disease he was helping others fight.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 21.—Once upon a Time there was a millionaire Party named August Belmont who was Possessed of an Equine known as Norse King. The said Mister Belmont, who is regarded as a Keen Judge of Horse Flesh oggled the Norse King during many of his Workouts on the Race Track and finally decided that Norse King, as a Racing animal wasn't there or even Thereabouts.

"How do you Dope it out?" queried Mister Belmont of the Guy who takes care of the Belmont animals and is supposed to have a Sixth or Seventh Sense in Judging Equines. "The same as you do, Boss," replied the Guy. "That Norse King horse is a Shine and a Flivver as a Racer."

"Then we shall Part with him," concluded Mister Belmont. Whereupon the Norse King was sold to a party who was considered a Boss bettor. He paid all of 200 Bucks for the said Norse King.

"The poor nut, he's been stung," remarked the Wise Ones. In the course of Time the Belmont Party deciding he needed a real speedy Animal to represent his stables, purchased an Animal known as Sam McMeekin. Mister Belmont and another fellow went in Calhoun in purchasing Sammy and the Price They paid was 15,000 Simoleons, quite a Healthy Price, to be sure, but the Wise Ones all were agreed that Belmont and partner were not making a Mistake.

In the meantime, the new owner of Norse King entered the $300 Horse in a race and the $300 horse promptly copped the race. The first place Money that Norse King won in that race was more than double what was paid for him.

"Fluke, a Rau Fluke," said the Wise Ones. Flushed with Success, the New Owner of Norse King entered the two year old in another Race and once again Norse King Romped home ahead, winning easily. The Wise Ones were Silent after this Second Victory for Norse King, and they became speechless when Norse King won his Third Race.

But the Climax came when the Merry New Owner of Norse King entered his Equine in a Stake Race against some of the Classified Ponies in the U. S. A. Included in those Horses that went to Post with the $300 Norse King was the $15,000 Sam McMeekin.

And when the finish Line was Reached the $300 Norse King was the first to cross with the $15,000 Sam McMeekin and the other Expensive and High Class Animals Quite a distance behind the Hoofs of the $300 Norse King.

(Norse King which figures in the above story broke a leg on July 19 and had to be shot.)

Upon another Occasion there was a Gazabo who lived in New York's vast congested and smelly East Side. This Gazabo had a Fondness for Horses and One day having amassed a Fortune estimated at 450 Plunks, he withdrew it from the Family Sack and turned it over to another Party in Exchange for a Horse that is known as Watertown probably because he was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., Rocky River, Ohio, or Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Everybody that is anybody in Racing Circles had a Good Laugh about it because Watertown in their opinion never would finish better than an Also Ran unless all the other horses Dropped Dead while En route to the Finish Line.

Well one Fine day, the New owner of Watertown entered his animal in a Race and Tipped off all his Friends to Get Down a few Beans on said Watertown to Cop first place. Knowing nothing about horses but having Supreme Confidence in the Tip and being Desirous of getting some east money, the East Side Friends hooked the Family Jewels, Mortgaged the Furniture and Made other Sacrifices in the anxiety to raise the Kale.

Having raised quite a Large Flock of Money the East Sides swept down upon the Handbook Men and begged them to take their Money. The Bookies did, handing Receipts to the East Sides that stated if Watertown won the Bookers would deliver unto the East Sides 4 dollars for every dollar that was wagered on Watertown.

When the horses went to the Post an animal named Lady Retha was the Supreme Favorite. To get a bet down on Lady Retha you had to put up $7 against $2. As to Watertown, well Watertown wasn't in it Nohow. Watertown was outclassed.

Yes, you are quite Right in your Surmise—Watertown, won, beating Lady Retha and the

And, oh, yoi, what a celebration those East Sides did have.

The moral of this is too plain for Explanation.

Educational Progress.

In round numbers there were 22,000,000 persons enrolled in educational institutions in the United States in 1914, according to the annual report of the commissioner of education just issued. Of these over 19,000,000 were in elementary schools; 1,374,000 in secondary schools, both public and private; and 216,000 in colleges and universities. Close to another hundred thousand were in normal schools preparing to be teachers, 67,000 were in professional schools, and the remainder were scattered through other types of institutions. The teachers for this educational army numbered 700,000, of whom 566,000 were in public schools. In point of rapid growth the public high school still presents the most impressive figures; the enrollment for 1914 is greater by over 84,000 than for the year before.

The cost of education for the year, as estimated by the bureau was $750,000,000. "This three-quarters of a billion is a relatively small amount when compared with other items in the public expense," declares the report. "It is less by $300,000,000 than the cost of running the federal government; it is less than one-third the nation's expenditure for alcoholic liquors; it is only a little over three times the estimated cost of admissions to moving picture theaters in the United States for the same year. Measured in terms of products of the soil, the United States spent somewhat more for education in 1914 than the value of its cotton crop, somewhat less than the value of its wheat crop, and less than half the value of the annual harvest of corn while the nation's education was less by nearly a hundred millions than the value of the exports from the harbor of New York in the calendar year just passed."

Very little increase is yet to be noted in the average term for public schools. Between 1910 and 1913 the increase was from 157.5 days a year to 158.1—a growth of only six-tenths of a day in three years. Attendance has improved, however. The average number of days attended by each person enrolled increased from 113 in 1910 to 115.6 in 1913.

Special subjects treated in this year's annual report of the commissioner of education include: The Junior High School; Montessori Schools in the United States; Vocational Education; Education for Child Nursing and Home-Making; School Surveys; and Education for Special Classes for Children.

Sweden and Iron. Sweden has smelted iron for more than twenty centuries and some of the ancient furnaces still are in existence.

Berlin's Bouquet.

Paris was teaching the world what there was no capital in Germany; London has been a commercial center for a thousand years, and Oxford was a hundred years old before even the University of Prague, the first in Germany, was founded by Charles IV in 1348. You may like or dislike these cities, but at any rate they have a bouquet; Berlin has none.

Faulty Educational System.

How's inquiry into the various tests which are put today to judge the extent of a child's education will convince one that the main object of our schools is to cultivate an automatic efficiency in what can only be termed the mechanical departments of the brain. It is the exact opposite of what education in its real sense ought to produce.—Exchange.
